National HIV Testing Day

Written By: Arturo Jackson III, MSW

HIV Testing Day (NHTD) was first observed on June 27, 1995 as a day to encourage U.S. residents to get tested for HIV, know their status, and get linked to care, treatment and prevention.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) NHTD theme for 2024, "Level up Your Self-Love: Check your Status" underlines valuing yourself, showing yourself compassion, respect and honoring your health needs with self-love. Information is power and knowing your HIV status is a vital life saving step to staying healthy especially if you are a member of a high risk group.

HIV testing is essential to know what path once you receive your results: HIV+ treatment and access to HIV medical care and medication or prevention with PREP, protecting persons from HIV infection.

Today there is no AIDS cure. If you test HIV+ it is a lifetime condition in a community and World united in a fight to end AIDS by 2030. Forty plus years into the AIDS epidemic and stigma remains a serious barrier to HIV testing and support for infected U.S. citizens.

While HIV affects all race and ethnic groups in the United States, some races are disproportionately affected compared to their population size. Black/African American people and Hispanic/Latino people are particularly affected by HIV, making up more than half (70%) of estimated new HIV infections in 2022. Latino or Hispanic people represent less than 20% of the United States population but account for nearly a third of new HIV diagnoses in 2022, according to the CDC.

When compared to all racial and ethnic groups, Hispanic people have the second highest rate of new HIV diagnoses, 19 new diagnoses for every 100,000 people, which is nearly double the national rate and new diagnoses are rising quickly.

There were 31,800 estimated new HIV infections in the U.S. in 2022. 67% (21,400) were among gay/bisexual men who reported male-to-male sexual contact. 22% (7,000) were reported among people reporting heterosexual sexual contact and 7% (2,300) among people who inject drugs.

HIV affects some groups more than others. Social and structural issues—such as HIV stigma, homophobia, discrimination, poverty, socio-economic instability, need for more mental health and substance abuse services, access to high-quality health care—influence health outcomes and continue to drive inequities. Regions in the U.S are impacted with the South testing more than half all new HIV cases. Overall future public health goal is to reduce the number of new HIV infections to 9,300 by 2025 and 3,000 by 2030.

U.S health advocates emphasize providers must approach communities they serve with innovative efforts to reach more people at risk of HIV. Some suggest to provide a HIV test as part of a regular healthcare check up and laboratory blood draw. It is hoped that by including a HIV test as part of regular blood screen will reduce the stigma associated with HIV/AIDS. The goal is to save lives.
